RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025 – Overview

The RRB ALP Psycho Test, officially known as the Computer-Based Aptitude Test (CBAT), was conducted for candidates who qualified CBT-2 in the ALP recruitment process. Unlike CBT-1 and CBT-2, this stage focuses entirely on psychometric and aptitude-based skills rather than academic subjects. The 2025 psycho test primarily evaluated:

- Mental alertness
- Concentration ability
- Memory power
- Decision-making skills
- Perceptual speed
- Reaction accuracy
- Direction sense

The examination followed the latest RDSO psychometric framework used to assess candidates for safety-critical railway roles.

RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025 – Key Highlights

Before analysing the paper in detail, here are some major observations from the 2025 psycho test:

- The exam focused entirely on aptitude and psychometric abilities.
- No academic subjects were included.
- Speed and accuracy played a significant role.
- Concentration-based tasks required continuous attention.
- Decision-making and perception tests carried high importance.
- Regular mock test practice proved beneficial for successful candidates.

These observations indicate that success in the ALP Psycho Test depends more on aptitude, focus, and consistent practice than on theoretical knowledge.

RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025 – What Can Candidates Learn?

The 2025 paper provides valuable insights into the actual expectations of the CBAT stage. By analysing the paper, candidates can understand:

- Areas that require consistent practice

Studying recent papers helps candidates prepare more strategically and avoid surprises on exam day.

RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025 – Exam Pattern

The psycho test serves as a qualifying stage, contributes to the final merit list, assesses job-specific aptitude, and evaluates a candidate's ability to perform under pressure. The RRB ALP Psycho Test is a computer-based aptitude test conducted to evaluate candidates' mental alertness, concentration, decision-making ability, and perception skills.

- Mode of Examination: Computer-Based Test (CBT)
- Conducting Body: Railway Recruitment Board (RRB)
- Duration: Approximately 45–60 Minutes
- Question Type: Psychometric & Aptitude-Based
- Negative Marking: No
- Language: English & Hindi

Important Rule: Candidates must secure the prescribed qualifying score in every individual test battery. Failure to qualify in even one battery results in disqualification.

Skills Tested: Decision-making ability, Presence of mind, and Safety awareness

RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025 vs Previous Years

While the core psychometric structure remained largely unchanged, the 2025 examination maintained a strong focus on practical aptitude and operational skills. According to candidate feedback, the test's overall difficulty was considered moderate.

Test Battery	Difficulty Level	Previous Years	2025
Memory Tests	Moderate	Yes	Yes
Concentration Tests	Moderate to Difficult	Yes	Yes
Decision-Making	Moderate	Yes	Yes
Perception Skills	Difficult	Yes	Yes
Computer-Based Format	Moderate	Yes	Yes

The major challenge was maintaining speed, concentration, and accuracy consistently throughout the examination.

RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025 – Scoring System

The psycho test follows a separate evaluation system. Important Points:

- Minimum qualifying T-score required in each battery
- No relaxation in qualifying standards
- Every battery must be cleared individually
- CBAT marks contribute to final merit

Final Merit Weightage

- 70% Weightage from CBT-2 Part A
- 30% Weightage from CBAT

Several candidates lost marks due to common mistakes such as:

- Spending too much time on individual tasks
- Ignoring speed requirements
- Losing concentration during lengthy batteries
- Making random selections under pressure
- Focusing on theory instead of aptitude practice

Avoiding these errors can help improve overall performance in the psycho test.

How to Prepare Using RRB ALP Psycho Test Question Paper 2025
